"I was finally able to get some time to look at your video. Very well done. And what I really like about it is that it mirrors your clinic. There is absolutely NO confusion or conflicting statements. The DVD has some additional material like troubleshooting, but that just makes it more worthwhile. Nice job!"

Building the House: Mechanics and Fundamentals of Pitching

This is the first of the House of Pitching series entitled, "Building the House, The Mechanics and Fundamentals of Pitching." A step-by-step progression of the pitching motion from where to place your feet on the mound to falling into the fielder's position once the ball is released. "Building the House" addresses the importance of leg drive, examines the different styles of pitching, explains the mandatory mechanics within each style, and provides insight into the pitching motion from a pitcher's point of view. Also included are sections covering the peel drop and troubleshooting suggestions for common mechanical problems. Bill Hillhouse will help you select the correct drills that simulate the entire pitching motion and provides several examples of such drills.
